TION CORNERED.

Litchfield, Conn., July 6.-The authoritles of Litchfield county have reason to believe that the headquarters of the "Connecticut Burglars' association" is in the mountain retreats of that county. The most daring robberies have occurred in that section of the state, always so near those fastnesses that the burglars could swoop down upon th store or postoffice upon which they had designs, loot it, and return to the hills before the alarm of their depredation had scarcely been sounded. Highwaymen swarm in the townships of Salisbury, North Canaan, Canaan, Norfolk, Goshen, Cornwall and Sharon, which towns are in the wildest section of the Six months ago the authorities be lieved the robbers had their rendezvous in New York state, and crossed the border line early in the evening, committed their burgiaries, and recrossed the boundary before dawn. This theory is now scouted, for to perform such a journey the robbers would require teams, which have been used in but a few instances. Again, no place across the border line affiords such ample protection as the hills of this county. An examination of the northwestern portion of Connecticut shows the ground to be broken by hills from three to fifteen hundred feet above the sea, covered with dense forests, and in places almost primeval in their wildness. Mountain streams and lakes are found everywhere, while small game is abundant. There are a half dozen abandoned farms here, and the buildings on them would afford ample shelter from the elements. The hills are filled with caves which would afford secure retreats in case the crooks were hard pressed by the police.

One of the more imaginative of the deputy-sheriffs who is to participate in the war against the outlaws has con ceived this picture of the home of the

On the summit of Skiff mountain, in the town of Sharon, thirteen hundred foot above the sea level, he sees a cave formed in the solid rock, screened in front by bushes, and difficult of access because of the steep cliffs. This cave Is stocked with the fat of the land; the finest imported wines and liquors obtained from some fancy grocery store situated, perhaps, in Torrington or Winsted; and, the choicest viands in the larder obtained from the various stores and farm houses in the neighborhood.

Then, the armory of those modern brigands contains the finest Colt's revolvers, Winchester rifles of the latest pattern, and the most improved arms of all descriptions. Indeed, from the martial display seen by this deputy the place would be well nigh impregnable

But from the nature of the country a band of determined men could defy the law for months, if not years, and just what plan of warfare will be pursued by the sheriffs and their deputies has not yet been decided. To go into the hills in a band would be useless some assert, for their advance would be surely detected, while by working singly and quietly, it is thought the robhers can be traced to their lair without exciting their suspicion.

But, whatever method of warfare they adopt, they propose to thoroughly scour the Litchfield county hills, and if there is a band of robbers, or only an amateur sneak thief, in the whole north western corner of Connecticut, they intend to make them, one and all, examples of what justice meets out to offenders, that shall make other knights of the fimmy and dark-lantern give the state of Connecticut a wide in the future.

Incentives are not found wanting, for rewards untold have been offered by and John Hayden broke in the door the victims of the robbers. Six hun- and found an old pair of trousers and dred dollars will be paid the person who captures the man who raided Winthrop Cone's store in Norfolk recently, five of pails of water. How the fire orighundred dollars being offered by the inated is not known, but it is supposed town of Norfolk, and one hundred by Cone. This is but one out of a hundred rewards ranging from twenty-five to the danger, and the officials are enthuslastic over their expected adventures hunting burglars in the "wilds of Connecticut."

A BOTTOMLESS PIT.

The New England Road Having Great Trouble in Filling at Towantic .

Waterbury, Aug. 6.-The New England railroad is experiencing a great deal of difficulty in filling up an apparently bottomless pit at Towantic, ten miles west of Waterbury, on the top of a hill with an elevation of 1,000 feet. There is a swamp at that point which was bridged when the road was built. Recently the road built a temporary track around the place and began to fill in the trestle work, as it had given evidence of weakness. Over 2,000 loads of gravel have been dumped off the trestle, but no perceptible effect has been made. The gravel dumped at night is swallowed up and disappears from view before morning. The officials of the road have nearly tired of trying to fill the trestle work, but have orders to continue until the new management takes control of the road.

We may not accept their peculiar reigious views. We cannot enter into the spirit of their sacrifices, and there fore we do not study their habits of life. It is not necessary to believe as they uprightness which mark all their busiess dealings.

In one particular the Shakers excel all other men or classes of men. This s in the cultivation of medicinal herbs and plants. They have made it a study for more than one hundred years. They are also expert in extracting from them their characteristic essences and medicinal virtues. This is their peculiar industry. Their lives have been devoted By it they are supported. They excel in this branch as do the monks of the order of St. Benedict with their famous liquer called "Benedictine."

Now, this lifelong study on the part of the Shakers has not been in vain. They have accomplished much good. Their medicinal extracts and cordials are known throughout the world. The Shaker Digestive Cordial is prob ably the most useful medicine ever given to the public. It is not a cure for all diseases; it doesn't pretend to be; but one disease it will cure, and that is indigestion. It is not pretended that it will cure anything else, and a ufferer has not long to wait to see th esult. The effect is immediate. Almost he first dose will give relief, and, if ontinued, a permanent cure will follow Every druggist has been sent a supoly of our handsome Donkey Puzzle Books, and a copy may be had for the asking. It tells all about the Cordial s well as Laxol, the new castor oil. Try a 25 cent bottle of Digestive Cor dial and see what it will do for you.

NORTH HAVEN.

Aug. 6 .- A special town meeting will be held on Wednesday, August 7, at 2 clock p. m., to consider the advisability of applying for state aid in building or hardening our roads. The voters of the town should be there.

Four liquor cases were tried in the court room recently; three paid their fines, amounting to $75, and one appealed to the court of common pleas. Grand Juror Todd, E. L. Linsley and others are wide-awake on the subject. Blackberry picking is said to b good in the old cemetery.

WALLINGFORD.

An alarm of fire was sounded by the gongs about 9:30 yesterday morn ng. There was the usual excitement but the fire proved to be a trifling one on the roof of A. I. Martin's building, south of H. L. Judd & Co.'s factory, caused, it is supposed, by a spark from a passing locomotive. The fire was put out without trouble. The services of the fire department were not needed, although it was ready for duty.

George Bellows discovered a fire Monay evening in a house owned by Mis Ellen Owens on North Colony street. The house was unoccupied and Bellows some rags on fire in the pantry, and soon put out the flames with a couple to have been of incendiary origin.

SCHOOLS OF TURKEY.

The Children Have Rather a Gay Time of It It is remarkable that the more secluded the domestic life of a people is the greater is the publicity given to all ceremonies connected with family events. This is particularly noticable in Turkey, where all the neighborhood is called upon to witness the observances, both religious and secular, with which such incidents of family life as birth, marriage and death are attend-

At some of the mosque schools each child receives two full suits of clothes every year, one for summer and one or winter. In the secondary schools, which are under the government, the pupils are not only ledged, fed and taught, but receive also a pension in

DO WOMEN NAGE

Mrs. Lyman Abbott Writes on the Subject of Nagging.

A well-known physician, a student of ealth as well as disease, has called out indignant denials by printing his opinon that they do. He has done it in th most considerate way, reminding one the person who, in calling another liar, said he did not mean it opprobi but merely stated it as a And the denfals are made in a fashion quite too feminine. "It isn't so, and be there is good excuse for it." our defenders say. Nervous irritability, narrowing and belittling sphere, the onstant presence of obnoxious and vexatious persons-what wonder that hu man nature exhibits unlovely traits under these provocations? It will do us no harm to look this accusation fairly in the face and see whether it be a fa-miliar of ours, with a new and ugly name. There is no dictionary at hand and I cannot verify my definition, but l suppose that what is meant by the wor 'nagging" is a constant repetition of petty reproof or command. It is a hab t which every conscientious housekeen er and every thoughtful mother is very much in danger of weaving for hersel and for fear of which many a woman "lets things go," to the injury of her home and her children. Arctic Sunburn.

To hear of suffering from heat in the Arctic regions sounds incredible to hose who have never been there. Lleuenant Gilder relates the experience of his party from this cause while one summer in King William's land and declares that probably nowhere on earth s the traveller more annoyed by actual sunburn than In the frigid zone. The heat of ordinary exercise compels him o throw back the hood of his fur coat and by thus exposing the head not only his entire face becomes blistered but especially-if he is fashionable enough to wear his hair thin on the top of his head-his entire scalp is affected about as severely as if a bucket of scalding water had been poured upon him.

At a later period Lieutenant Schwatka's entire party while upon sledge journey from Marble Island to Camp Daly were so severely burned that not only their faces but their entire heads were swollen to nearly twice their size. And a fine looking party they were. Some had faces so swoller that their eyes were completely closes on awakening from sleep. When one the others he could not refrain from laughing. All dignity was lost. Even On returning to the paternal roof a the august commander of the party was distribution of small coins is made to a laughing stock and though he knew ill the beggars and other poor people why they laughed at each other he ollected around the gateway; for in could not understand why he should ex the east the poor always come in for cite such mirth. Pretty soon he saw their share of the rejoleings of their his face in a mirror and found that when he tried to smile his lips were so thoroughly swollen that the effect was any thing but happy. # Bread Has Been Aptly Termed "The Staff of Life,"

And it is daily consumed by the Rich as well as the Poor. It is found on the table of the occupants of a palace, as well as in the humble cottage of the "sturdy sons of toil." When it is properly made it confers strength and health to the user. But much of "the commercial article" which is used by the masses is a "delusion and a snare," and, instead of producing a pleasurable feeling and nourishing the human frame, it causes a "bad taste in the mouth" and is condu nutritious and strengthening. Made by the original process from pure materials, it always agrees with all constitutions, and as a consequence it daily increases in popularity.
